From National Museums Of Scotland : A Passion for Glass: The Dan Klein Alan J. Poole Private Collection before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Passion for Glass: The Dan Klein Alan J. Poole Private Collection:

A dazzling collection of modern glass was gifted to National Museums of Scotland by Alan J. Poole and Dan Klein in 2009. Their collecting began in the late 1970s and over the subsequent thirty years they assembled one of the most comprehensive collections of modern British and Irish glass. Dan Klein held directorships in Christie's auction house and, among other appointments, was Professor of Glass and Ceramics at the University of Sunderland for eleven years. He was one of the first people to collect and write about British post-war glass. Together with Alan J. Poole he formed a company to promote contemporary glass with an emphasis on the work of artists from Britain and Ireland including Sam Herman, Alison Kinnaird, Colin Reid, Karl Herron, David Reekie, Katharine Coleman and Tessa Clegg.

'... For a student this is essential reading. For a collector it's an invaluable guide and personal primer. For a maker in the UK or Ireland, it's a family album that forms an important part of the collective story of who we are and what we are a part of. It should be on all our bookshelves.' Glass Circle News
